Tramper definition: a person who tramps | Meaning, pronunciation, translations and examples

TRAMPER tells the story of the Capelin, a battered old World War II supply ship that earns its keep crossing the stormy North Pacific between Seattle and the Aleutian Islands delivering cargo to the remote fishing villages of Western Alaska. Rugged trip, rugged people and a dangerous part of the world with a violent history. It's not tourist Alaska.

"Russell Dungan was about to collect the pension for the first time. He'd also never gone tramping for any distance before - he'd never slung a pack on his back and walked off into the unknown. Then he heard a bloke on the radio talking about the famous Te Araroa Trail, which stretches from North Cape to the Bluff. He could walk it. Why the hell not?"--Back cover.

Addresses the key cotton ginning issues concerned with facilities, machinery, cleaning, ginning, drying, packaging, and waste collection and disposal as well as ancillary issues concerned with pollution, management, economics, energy, insurance, safety, cotton classification, and textile machinery. Appendices: duties of gin personnel, portable moisture meters and pink bollworm control in gins. Glossary and index. Photos, charts, tables and graphs.

Set includes revised editions of some issues.

In Richard Taylor: Missionary Tramper we see one of the Church Missionary Society missionaries to the Maoris going about his duties in the middle years of the nineteenth century in the North Island of New Zealand - tramping on muddy tracks through dense forest for days on end, camping in pouring rain, being nearly frozen to death on bleak, high plains in the depth of winter, dodging the tide round the base of the sea-cliffs, fording flooded rivers, shooting rapids in a dug-out canoe or laboriously poling upstream. Reading between the lines of his diary, which is the basis of this book, we can see that the instincts of an explorer and natural scientist were strong in this man. Accompanied by his team of Maori bearers and paddlers, he made long and difficult journeys through the length and breadth of the island.

Ein Kind wird von einem PKW überrollt. Der Fahrer, ein Student, braust einfach weiter, bekommt dann allerdings Gewissensbisse. Seine Mutter aber hindert ihn daran, sich zu stellen. Sie will ihrem Sohn die Karriere nicht verderben und erpresst ihren Bruder, damit er ihnen aus der Patsche hilft. Ein teuflischer Plan wird ersonnen, ein Tramper zum Sündenbock erkoren. Die Kriminalisten, Bothe und Kielstein, sehen sich einem Geflecht aus Lügen und Korruption gegenüber, das sie zunächst nicht zerreißen können. Ein Krimi über Engpässe in der Versorgung und die daraus entstehende Bestechlichkeit. Bei der Aufklärung des raffiniert angelegten Falles werden aber auch das Prestigedenken bestimmter Schichten sowie Jugendprobleme zur Sprache gebracht. LESEPROBE: Er erwacht, weil ihn jemand am Arm rüttelt. Wind ist aufgekommen, der Himmel hat sich bewölkt, es sieht nach Gewitter aus. "Steh auf, wir müssen weg", sagt eine Stimme, die Jochen schon mal gehört hat, fürs erste aber nicht einzuordnen weiß. "Was ist, wo bin ich?" "Das mit meiner Frau klappt nicht, wir machen's anders." "Ach so", sagt Jochen, denn nun kommt ihm die Erinnerung. Er muss fast zwei Stunden geschlafen haben; seine Taschenuhr zeigt halb neun. Der Tisch, die Stühle stehen noch am Haus, aber die Bierflaschen sind bedauerlicherweise verschwunden. Der Mann, der offenbar schon eine Weile zurück ist, muss sie weggeräumt haben. "Pack deine Decke ein, beeil dich!" "Mensch, hab' ich gepennt." "Um so besser für dich." Die Stimme klingt im Gegensatz zu vorhin unfreundlich, dennoch sagt der Tramper: "Am liebsten würd' ich hier übernachten." "Das geht nicht. Es wird bald ein Gewitter geben, und wir können nicht ins Haus." "Irgendwie würden wir's schon schaffen." "Ich hab' gesagt, es geht nicht." "Und was soll nun werden?", brummt Jochen. "Nach Neustanwitz kann ich dich jetzt nicht fahren, das ist zu weit. Ich bringe dich zum nächsten Bahnhof, ein bisschen Geld hast du doch?" "Naja." Jochen nimmt sein Bündel, sie schieben das Tor zu und steigen in den Lada. Diesmal finden sie ohne Mühe durch den Wald. So oder ähnlich musste es ja kommen, denkt der Tramper. Aber als der erste Guss niederprasselt, ist er froh, wenigstens im Trockenen zu sitzen. Sie fahren einige Kilometer, ohne dass sich noch ein Gespräch ergibt. Der Mann scheint verstimmt zu sein, auf Jochens Frage, was seiner Frau dazwischengekommen sei, reagiert er ausweichend und unwirsch.
